

services for grad students

Equipping graduate students with tools to share knowledge

<http://cdrs.columbia.edu/>

Preserve and share knowledge

The Center for Digital Research and Scholarship (CDRS) offers a suite of services that enable graduate students to preserve and share knowledge. All CDRS' services are designed to enhance the quality and visibility of your work. Our range of projects is available on our website at cdrs.columbia.edu under "Projects." In addition, our services video can be viewed at <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Cs1ZYuB2bc0>.

Academic Commons

Academic Commons, Columbia's online repository, increases the visibility and accessibility of scholarly materials.

Each work receives its own permanent URL, which ensures its longevity.

In addition to dissertations and theses, we accept articles, working papers, datasets, conference proceedings, and more.

Wikischolars

Wikischolars is a collaborative platform that allows researchers to share knowledge across institutional boundaries. Wikis can either be public-facing or private. If you're working on a project that involves multiple collaborators, a wiki may be useful to you.

Journals

Are you thinking about starting a journal? Do you want your already-existing journal to have greater visibility? CDRS' journal services may be exactly what you need. We equip our partners with software, hosting services, and maintenance. We offer various levels of service; some include design work, which carries a fee.

Conferences

Is your department holding a conference this year? To ease the burden of conference planning, CDRS offers software that can keep track of registration, manage submissions, and build a website that lends greater visibility to your conference.

Links:

Academic Commons:

<http://academiccommons.columbia.edu>

Wikischolars:

<http://wikischolars.columbia.edu>

For more information

If you have questions about CDRS' services, we are eager to talk to you about your needs.

Contact us at:

info@cdrs.columbia.edu

partnering with researchers and scholars to share new knowledge